President Thomas W. Martin Explains Offer

CHIEF PROVISION OF POWER COMPANY'S BID SAID TO BE THE MONEY FEATURES

Completion of Project Would Be Accomplished Without Cost To Nation

HEAD OF POWER UNIT ADDRESSES SENATORS

Chief Executive Appears Before The Senate Agriculture Committee

(International News Service)
WASHINGTON, April 17—Completion of the Muscle Shoals nitrate project without further cost to the government was the chief provision in the offer of the Alabama Power company, according to Thomas W. Martin, its president, appearing today before the senate agricultural committee.

Martin declared the company would pay the government $5,000,000 in cash for the accessory steam plant at the Muscle Shoals site, furnish 100,000 secondary horsepower free and complete the project with its own resources if given the project under a lease.

In explaining his company's offer, Martin called attention to the fact that the secondary horsepower could be used to manufacture fertilizer. If the government did not desire it, he added, the government would purchase it at a price fixed by the federal power commission.

All work, he said, would be done under the control of the commission.

"The company desires to take out a license under the federal power commission to complete the dam, lock and power house at Muscle Shoals. We will guarantee the installation of 240,000 horsepower. The company reserves the right to exclusive use of the first 100,000 horsepower developed owing to the enormous financial burden it accepted in agreeing to complete construction work without further cost to the government."

"The company, however, would furnish 100,000 secondary horsepower free to the government. This could be used by the government in manufacturing fertilizer, war nitrate or in research work," Martin said.

In reply to questions, Martin declared the secondary horsepower could be used for fertilizer, owing to the seasonal demand for fertilizer. He admitted, however, that the secondary horsepower would not be available throughout the year.

ATLANTA, Ga., April 17—"The man or men of official authority who seek to delay this proposition are playing with fire," declared James A. Perry, member of the Georgia railroad commission today in speaking of the expressed opinion of congressmen that six months would be required to enact legislation giving Henry Ford control of Muscle Shoals, Ala.

Perry made his assertion in the course of a statement in which he outlined the address he will make Saturday before the Georgia Muscle Shoals mass meeting in Macon.

There has seldom been a proposal which has attracted so much support from the Georgia public as the Ford matter, he said. He attributed the universal public opinion to the belief that Ford will make the most of the plant for labor, farmers and all others.

"Who knows but that it is the fore-runner of an early era which will put the entire manufacture of cotton right in the cotton fields and save the world many millions in the price of double transportation on cotton and its product," Perry declared.

Perry said the proposal of Senator Norris to have the government operate the plant "is ridiculous" and whether he intends it or not it spells nothing less than delay.

Intriguing Romance Revealed In Flight of Mme. Lebaudy and Daughter

An intriguing romance is revealed in the disappearance from a Paris sanitarium of Mme. Jacques Lebaudy, acquitted slayer of her husband, "Emperor of the Sahara," shot to death at their Westbury, N. Y., home in 1919, and her daughter, Jacqueline. Roger Sudreau, detective, said to have married Jacqueline so that she might inherit her father's fortune, has police searching for the two women. In denying that he married her to facilitate handling the Lebaudy fortune of several million dollars, Sudreau asserts that he and his wife were devoted to each other. An artillery officer is believed to have aided the women in vanishing.

Attorney E. W. Godbey, in Thoughtful Address, Defends Man's Immortality

As remarkable an address on immortality as were any of the pulpit utterances on that subject yesterday in the Twin Cities or perhaps anywhere else, was that of E. W. Godbey before the Berry Bible class of the First Presbyterian church of Decatur. All of the speaker's remarks were taken seriously, but the humor of some of them was not overlooked by the class of men, although the speaker as to facial expression indicated not at all that he was using the weapon of humor. Mr. Godbey was facetious only when attacking the Darwinian theory of evolution. He seems to have joined William J. Bryan, and a host of other thoughtful laymen in the present crusade against the theory of the ancestry of man, as pictured by Darwin.

Mr. Godbey has been an observer of the evolution controversy, he stated in his address, ever since as a student at the university he used to walk over to the Presbyterian Synodical meetings and hear the late Dr. Bryson of Huntsville and other intellectuals of the Southern Presbyterian church discuss evolution pro and con. He said these debaters' spears fell with a vengeance, "and their swords shone like polished fire." The speaker admitted the plausibility of the theory on first blush and admitted that he had once looked with more favor on it, than he now did after many years of reflection and observation. Mr. Godbey said he was in thorough accord with a certain New York priest who when told that monkey blood and human blood were identical, therefore apes and men had the same origin—replied that also wild ass milk, the milk humans drank were the same, therefore, all men were asses.

"You cannot believe Darwin and Moses at the same time. They do not consort together," exclaimed the teacher. It was declared, that it was to be supposed that the evolutionists included the women of our race in their theories: as I hardly think," said

SPECIAL SERVICES MARK EASTERTIDE OBSERVANCE HERE IN ALL CHURCHES

Day Was Never More Generally Observed in Albany and Decatur

MUSICAL PROGRAM BY AUGMENTED CHOIRS

Story of Resurrection Retold From Pulpits By Various Pastors

The Eastertide was never more generally observed in the Twin Cities and the surrounding communities than was the case yesterday. The beauty of the day and the absence of dust on the streets and highways due to the recent rains contributed in part to the large turn-out of people at the various Easter services.

As announced previously, perhaps the earliest celebrations of the sacred event were held at the St. Johns Episcopal church, and at St. Ann's Catholic church, while only a little later at 7:30 in the morning the Central Methodist church was the scene of a solemn ceremony conducted for and by members of the Masonic fraternity termed "lighting the candles." A considerable number of active Masons participated in the service, which was described as "solemn, sacred and impressive." Quite a number of Masons drove in from surrounding towns such as Mooresville, Athens and Hartsville.

All day services were held at St. Ann's and at other churches, including the Central Baptist, where beginning with Sunday school the church auditorium was in almost continual use throughout the day.

The Sunday school attendance, always large on Easter Sunday, were unusually large yesterday, as many or more students attending yesterday than at any previous time in the entire history of Albany and Decatur.

Interest was heightened for the First Presbyterian Sunday school, not only because of the special services, but because of an enthusiastic contest between two divisions of the school. And not the least of the attractions yesterday at this school was an address dealing with immortality from a reasonable standpoint and from the Scriptures to the Berry Bible class by E. W. Godbey.

For yesterday the special sermons, special music and floral decorations are numbered by the number of church buildings in the two cities—a total of nearly 25.

Special attention was given to the elderly people by the East Albany Baptist church, where the pastor, Rev. R. F. Stuckey, conducted the entire service, as they were carried on in the many of the large country churches of 40 years ago.

Rev. Peake, formerly pastor of the Westside Presbyterian church, preached an Easter sermon at the West minister Presbyterian, at the request of the pastor, Rev. L. F. Goodwin, who was called to conduct special services out of the cities yesterday. Each of the five church in South Albany are reported to have had large congregations yesterday, as also the case at the West Albany church, at the First Christian church on Moulton street.

Attracted by announcements, a large audience heard Dr. C. C. Davison, pastor of the First Baptist church of Decatur, yesterday, who spoke on the necessity of living in "newness of life." Mrs. A. T. Hanson sang a solo at this service and a quartette composed of Mrs. Giles, Mrs. Bailey and Messrs. Nelson and Paul Dix, sang.

An added attraction to the impressive program carried out at the First Methodist church, Decatur, was the singing of Margaret Clarkson, the talented soloist.

According to general reports gathered, the sermon by Dr. J. F. Sturdivant

FIRST TRADES DAY HERE WILL BE HELD MAY 6 COMMITTEE ANNOUNCES TODAY

Plans Were Completed At Series of Meetings Held Last Week

MOVEMENT'S METHODS ARE "VERY SIMPLE"

Merchants Will Offer Exceptional Values To The Buying Public

Albany's first trades day will be held May 6, according to an announcement today by the committee of three having charge of the movement for the first three months of its existence. Members of the committee are: D. W. Speake, chairman; W. E. Sibley and J. L. Proctor.

Plans for the trades day movement were completed at a series of meetings held by the merchants last week in the rooms of the chamber of commerce. The program will continue for 12 months and belief was expressed today that its success would be so pronounced that merchants would sign immediately for another year.

The movement has been used in many communities with great success already. The plan is simple. Every merchant entering into the movement agrees that on a specified day he will offer at least one extraordinary bargain. There will be no duplications, in order that the public may reap the greatest benefit from the plan. Advertisements of the merchants shall be submitted to the committee of three, who, from their knowledge of prices and market conditions, shall pass upon the genuineness of the bargain offered.

The fact that a long list of articles may be purchased on trades day for cash, at an exceptionally low price, is expected to attract many out-of-town visitors here for that day's shopping.

An added feature of the movement is the plan for sales of farm products on the same date. Farmers having any article they desire to dispose of at auction were requested to take the matter up with the committee immediately, and not later than May 1. The committee will advertise the product free of cost for the seller and auction it off for him.

Merchants who have already signed up for the movement are: Rahm Clothing company, Ory-Cohen, Morgan Furniture company, R. E. Chandler, Sibley and Sandlin, Speake, Echols and Speake, A. C. Joiner and Son, Schimmel and Hunter, J. A. Buttery, Preuit-Dillehay Drug company, E. L. Thomas, Campbell and Hodges, Kelley and Hawk, S. M. Thompson, Geo. J. Friendkin-Sherbey's, Moseley-Eggers Shoe company, Crane's Clothes Shop, L. Wilenzick, Hardage Bros., Morgan County National bank, Cash Home Outfitters, Albany-Decatur Daily, S. N. Garnett, Dillehay Bros., J. M. Sears, J. T. Bentley, Matlock's Cash store.

The committee today requested all other merchants and business houses who will enter the campaign to notify the committee at once.

C. L. U. Will Hold Special Meeting

A special meeting of the Central Labor Union is called to meet tonight in Carmen's hall to hear addresses given by Messrs. Louis Bowen and John R. T. Rives of Birmingham. The first named is secretary of the Alabama State Federation of Labor. The latter is general chairman Order of Railway Conductors of the southeastern division. The meeting is called for 8 o'clock.

The Albany Chamber of Commerce earnestly urges you to aid in the "Paint Up and Clean Up" campaign April 23 to 29.

What You Should Do
See that all rubbish is removed from your cellar, back yard and areaway. Have it placed in suitable receptacles where the Street Cleaning Department can readily remove it.

Clear hallways of all obstructions.

Remove and clean all carpets and hangings for the summer.

Scrub floors, hallways and all unvarnished woodwork thoroughly. Use plenty of soap and hot water.

Clean all windows and keep them open to fresh air and sunlight.

Ventilate damp cellars.

Report all neighborhood nuisances, such as stagnant pools and ill-smelling refuse piles, to the Health Department.

Ask your landlord to repair leaky roofs and plumbing, and to repair dirty, broken walls and ceilings.

If there is a vacant lot adjoining your house see that it is cleaned of all decaying and refuse material.

AND REMEMBER that cheerful compliance with these suggestions, and with every other effort of the Health Department, will help to make your city a more healthful one in which to live.

You Should Be Glad to Do It.

BASEBALL SEASON OPENS SATURDAY

With the exception of the high school games, the baseball season will open here Saturday when the Albany Athletic club will play Hartsville. The game will be called at 2:30 o'clock and admission will be free.

All players who will try for the local team were urged to appear at the ball park every afternoon this week for practice. The team is not selected yet, it was stated, and an invitation was extended to all amateurs to lend their assistance in building up a winning combination.

Hartselle is said to have a strong line up. Ben Russell, Twin hurler last year, is a member of the Hartselle pitching staff and Alex Dunn, formerly of the Virginia State league, is one of the Hartselle infield combination.

New Beat Created By Revenue Board

A new voting precinct for Morgan county was created at the last meeting of the board of revenue. It is Moulton Heights. It was created at the request of citizens of that thriving section. The creation of it was made possible by the taking off from beats surrounding it on either side. The new beat is number 25.

POLK DIRECTORY AGENTS ARE HERE

Agents of the Polk Directory company are here today making arrangements for the publication of a new city directory for Albany and Decatur. The last directory was published for the Twin Cities in 1917.

The representatives of the company are renewing subscriptions and advertising contracts. The company is one of the best known directory companies in the nation and universal satisfaction has been found with their methods.

TWO FINED

Two accused faced Mayor Payne in Albany police court Monday morning and drew fines of $26.60 in each case. A quiet Sunday was experienced otherwise by the peace officers.

SWEEP THE SLATE OF ALL WAR DEBTS AND BIND NATIONS TO FUTURE PEACE

Economic Pact Provides For Formal Recognition of Russian Debt

ANOTHER CONFERENCE THIS FALL IS RUMORED

Message to President Harding From Lenin's Grave To America

(International News Service)

GENOA, April 17—Germany and Russia have concluded an economic treaty, it was learned from an authority today.

By the terms of the treaty all war claims which each country held against the other have been swept off the table. The two countries are resuming friendly relations with a clean slate. The treaty provides for immediate and formal recognition of the Russian soviet government by Germany and for the closest economic co-operation, especially with regard to the reconstruction of Russia.

Diplomatic relations will be resumed immediately, according to the treaty. News of the treaty had the effect of a bombshell on the allied delegates to the conference.

No comment could be obtained, officials desiring to confer among themselves before giving their views as to the effect of the treaty.

The general impression prevails that the Russians will agree to recognize all foreign debts, provide some means are found to assist the Russians financially at this time. The rumor that Premier Lloyd George plans another conference, possibly this fall, in which it is hoped to have the United States represented, still is heard. This conference, it is said, will take place either in London or The Hague and will take up reparations, land armament and war debts.

WASHINGTON, April 17—A message that is expected to be an important factor in shaping the administration's policy toward soviet Russia is now enroute from Nikolai Lenin to President Harding.

It is being brought to the United States, it was learned, by ex-Governor James P. Goodrich, of Indiana, who has been in Russia for some weeks.

Some new and concrete developments in American-Russian relations are expected in the very near future. It is confidently believed in many quarters that some form of American recognition for the Lenin-Trotsky is near. It is also recognized here that the plans of this government may be shaped by developments at Genoa.

GRUBBS TO HEAR STREET CAR CASE

Efforts to obtain permission of the federal court for suspension of service of the lines of the North Alabama Traction company here will come in before Judge Grubb, of the federal court, in Huntsville tonight.

Several city officials will go to Huntsville to seek a solution of the problem of the car company, in an effort to have the system continue in operation in the Twin Cities.

INFANT DIES

WE FAVOR ACCEPTANCE OF HENRY FORD'S BID FOR MUSCLE SHOALS.

SATISFY ALL CONCERNED AS TO THE USE OF TIME.

The right number of hours for work during the day has received much attention during the last ten or fifteen years. And because of the truth "many men many minds," little progress has been made toward a definite and final settlement. The idea of eight hours work in twenty four has become quite popular in some quarters; but many thoughtful persons point out serious objections to such a program—such doubt the economic soundness of it.

Others will say that the old law of success requiring the burning of the midnight oil has never been repealed. Others claim that as a matter of fact every person of energy desires to work at something more than eight hours in twenty-four. Such reasons reject absolutely the familiar slogan—"Eight hours sleep, eight hours work and eight hours play," saying that a third of the time is too long to play in. Also it is pointed out that such a rule is too arbitrary, since no person can be legislated at too much—that people cannot be reduced to a formula.

Accordingly some change the old slogan to—"Eight hours sleep, eight hours work, and eight hours—use your own judgment". Such a rule would work fine, if every body had perfect judgment. Too many have the wrong kind of judgment for it to be allowed to go as far as it likes. It is feared many would choose idleness, which is the devil's mischief material. A happy medium between the two extremes mentioned seems to be reached in some of the modern books on 'economics' which reads: "Eight hours sleep, eight hours work, and eight hours to citizenship." This last rendering is agreeable to Pryor Irwin, who so recently aroused his hearers by addresses he made here, to where they got a new vision of the claims and privileges of citizenship. It will be noted that in the last restatement of the old adage concerning the use of time, that no definite of specific duties are enjoined. A large range of choice is left to the individual. But an objective is set. A third of the time is to be given to meeting ones obligations as a good citizen of the community. If one feels that he can make a good citizen best by reading a book, or even writing one let him do those things. If he feels that he should promote recreations, athletics, games or sports let him do those things. If there are others who wish to show what can be done with chickens or gardens at spare times, let them do those things. Let people do any thing they like just so they do not adopt foolish hobbies that have no value in making up the sum total of good citizenship. In making a start in citizenship work according to Mr. Irwin, the individual should find a place in some good movement or community plan. Also his decisions as to what he shall do, should be determined, by his town's needs, by his talents, and ability to meet those needs, and according to the honest suggestions and serious opinion of his friends and associates as to what he can do to the best advantage. If such a course should be followed conscientiously, the so-called "leisure hours problem" would be solved to the satisfaction of all concerned.

DRYS WIN IN CLEAR CUT FIGHT.

A special election was held in the 37th congressional district in New York, Tuesday, to fill a vacancy created by the appointment of the congressman from that district United States ambassador in Berlin. There were two candidates, one a democrat and the other a republican. Judge Frank Irvin was the democratic candidate, and Lewis Henry the republican.

Prohibition was the dominant issue in the campaign. Judge Irvin declaring for repeal of the Volstead act and substitution of a measure which would legalize the sale of beer and wines. Mr. Henry stood for prohibition and was supported by prohibition organizations.

The wets, notwithstanding the defeat of their candidate, are claiming a victory, in this that their vote fell off less than that of the dry candidate. There was a much smaller vote cast in the special than in the general election in November, as there always is.

Then again the republican vote last November was abnormal. They swept the country like a cyclone. No one expects republicans to receive another such victory, unless the democrats are lacking in leadership, as they lacked at San Francisco. But explanation is offered by the drys for this falling off, though the above stated fact is sufficient, that the republican vote in the last election was abnormal. The dry leaders point out that "the inclement weather cut down their vote in the rural sections, where their candidate was the strongest." The towns and cities have very generally been conceded to the wets. But even in the cities sentiment is gradually changing to prohibition.—Montgomery Journal.

We live in what we achieve. Our memory; our being; our ideas; our advancement of whatever we labored to give life and action, force and being to, is a part of us after we cease among the walks of men. If some desires and ideas, with no thought of accomplishing along the great plans of life and activity is our life's work, we are remembered by these and these only. If we have given life and culcate into the fabric of other beings with whom we come in contact, helping them along the way we have achieved something that will make us remembered by those who think and it will be pleasant for them to think upon. John Burroughs, the great naturalist lives in the plants and flowers, the birds and trees among who he spent so much of his life. Whenever the name of John Burroughs is mentioned at once the thought of song birds, the beautiful wooded slopes, that which is natural and which he sought to portray riveting it upon the hearts and minds of those with whom he came in contact in such a manner that although John Burroughs is dead—he lives.

THE MAURY DEMOCRAT PRINTS EASTER NUMBER.

The Daily is in receipt of the Easter, spring and automobile numbers of The Maury Democrat (Columbia, Tenn.) The edition is very attractive and reflects much credit not only on Editor Ashley Sowell and his co-workers, but upon the entire community in which it is published. The edition contains 36 pages of interesting reading matter and handsome advertising layouts.

The management of The Democrat is to be congratulated on the splendid edition.

Just a short time and the meadows will abound with sweet smelling hay. Haying time is always a season when something is begun to be conserved and garnered for the Winter just ahead. It is the beginning of the husbanding of the farm products. Many look forward to the time of hay harvest with pleasure. It presents a pretty sight indeed as nicely constructed shocks of fine cured hay are scattered here and there over a large level meadow, awaiting the time when it will be hauled and thrown into the hay loft, representing a commercial value which pays good returns for the labor expended and furnishes good food for stock. More attention is being paid to meadows in the county than formerly, and here and there can be seen good fields of alfalfa which does well if given a chance under right conditions.

The generous do not count the cost; they are concerned about results.

There are more constructive agencies at work in the county now than at any other time perhaps in its history. School houses are being built in every portion of the county. A road building program, the best ever attempted in the county has been let, and contractors will begin on same at an early date. The main road through the county, the Bee Line highway will be completed to the Cullman county line at an early date. The Bee Line road from Albany to the Hartselle corporation line will be resurfaced with asphalt binder. When all these projects are completed we will be on top as far as good roads are concerned. We will continue to build along constructive lines once the building has started.

Great sums can be spent for seemingly no good. But it is a fact that being prepared has saved the day for many a cause. Being prepared when the crucial moment came; thoroughly organized so the thing whatever it might be could be combated from a winning standpoint. Lives have been saved by proper sanitation and safeguards. When pestilence comes it is too late to inaugurate means and measures; the disease germs have been sown and are then producing harvest. Many things of which we see no tangible results, their greatest efficiency and the work that counts the greatest is in prophylaxis; preventing rather than cure.

A new airplane weighing only 314 pounds is said to have been built and can be taken down and set up within an hour, when one can be off to the heavenly regions. It doesn't say whether dead or alive, and it would naturally depend on whether or not certain things were evident.

It is quite noticeable the many times the rivers of the country have overflowed their banks during the past sixty days. Much destruction has been wrought by high waters the present Spring, and farming operations are likewise badly retarded. What nature interrupts she can quickly remedy and make amends for at an equally rapid rate. Soon growing weather will be here, and the moisture in the ground will cause the crops to off at a rapid rate.

Due to the fact that there is plenty of corn on most of the farms of the county, a large percent of farmers have their Winter meat well on the road. A beginning in time to feed pork hogs and not wait until the beginning of fall to fatten them guarantees more and better porkers. It is said that a well fed hog for eight to ten months is more profitable than one kept for twice that period and sparingly fed. Due to the fact that many now have pure bred swine on the farms of the county, and many more pure bred pigs brought in by the activities of the boys' pig clubs, guarantees for the county a greater number of pure bred hogs than in the past.

All Morgan County citizens are proud of the fact that there is to be a real campaign of road building in the county. The mere fact of its announcement sent a thrill through the breasts of each loyal citizen of the county. It means so much; it is far reaching; the results directly attributable to it are multiplied; the impetus given every industry in the county on account of the plan being put into effect is so potent, that it seems a new day of activity; a day in which greater things will be accomplished; a greater county pride will be manifested, and we can truly be said to be approaching the zenith of accomplishments.

It frequently happens that the first to censure are the very last ones to forgive, it at all they have the forgiving spirit. It is vastly more dignified and manly to forgive and ask to be forgiven. Most anyone can bring some accusation, but it takes real manhood to acknowledge a fault and ask forgiveness. Out of this quality the finest fabric which enters to humankind is constructed.

We frequently use the word WE when the personal pronoun I is the word that is more applicable. How often is it the case we see something that is needed to be done and we express a surprise that THEY don't do it. After a final analysis it comes directly home to every citizen and the question might aptly be asked, why don't I do it. We and they are then collected.

TREASURY EXPERTS TURN ATTENTION TO WRANGLE ON BONUS BILL FOR SOLDIERS

Public Hearings Are Scheduled Before the Committee For Wednesday

TWO CHANGES SOUGHT BY THE ADMINISTRATION

Hanford McNeider, Commander of Legion, Will Present Organizations' Claim

WASHINGTON, April 17—Guardians of the public treasury in the senate today turned their attention to the much delayed soldier bonus. With public hearings scheduled for Wednesday before the finance committee, it became apparent today that the administration forces will make a definite attempt to carry out their promise of enacting adjusted compensation at the present session of congress.

Administration leaders, under the present plan, hope to write the following changes into the house bill:

1. Elimination of the land section.
2. Authorization for the issuance of $40,000,000 worth of short term certificates, expected to be funded from interest paid on the British debt.

The short term certificates, marking the greatest change from provisions passed by the house are necessary, in the opinion of administration leaders, for the payment of cash veterans to the "50 veterans." It was pointed out that soldiers or sailors entitled to $50 or less are entitled to a cash settlement.

The land feature has not met with favor among senate leaders. Its provisions, it is feared, will develop a long fight on the senate floor from friends of former service men.

For this reason an effort will be made to eliminate it in the committee room. No definite action, however, will be taken on the house bill until the American Legion has been heard at the committee hearing.

Hanford McNeider, commander of the Legion, will appear Wednesday. Although President Harding has urged enactment of the permanent tariff before the soldier bonus, friends of the service men will make an effort to jam the bonus through during the long drawn out debate over the tariff.

RESUMING WORK ON MORGAN FARMS

A general resumption of farm work began in Morgan county Monday morning. Many of the farmers of the county have been attending court here during the past two weeks, cars and good roads make it possible to make the trip home during their stay here to direct their farm work. This is cotton planting time in this section. Most of the crop will be planted this week. Judging from the amount of inquiry for seed there will be a normal acreage planted to cotton, with a disposition to use a liberal amount of commercial fertilizer.

A significant fact with regard to seed corn is that there was more attention paid to pedigreed corn last season than formerly and there is no cause to send outside of the county for fine seed corn. Displayed at many of the supply stores of the county is various kinds of seed corn of Morgan county raising is here in plentiful quantities.

Strawberries in the county are beginning to get ripe and their gathering with the other farm work on hand and pretty weather abounding insure a very busy time ahead for those thus engaged. Many of the early planted gardens are producing early vegetables and before we are hardly aware of it cotton chopping time and real summer weather will be here.

INTERIOR OF OKLAHOMA "TRAGEDY HOUSE"

This exclusive picture shows for the first time the interior of the Oklahoma City "tragedy house" where Lieutenant-Colonel Paul Ward Beck, post field commander at Fort Sill, was killed by a bullet in the hands of Jean P. Day, former Oklahoma Supreme Court Justice. The fatal bullet was discharged, declares the accused man, when he struck the flyer over the head with his revolver during a scuffle.

ALBANY-DECATUR DAILY

J. ADLAI WEST, Correspondent.

Leave items of general interest, including social, personals, current happenings, at Peoples Drug Company.

Easter was generally observed at the different churches here. Some preparation for the day being made at all of them. At the Methodist church appropriate service were held in the morning with an Easter sermon. The church was beautifully decorated with potted plants and cut flowers tastefully arranged from the front door entrance to the pulpit. At the evening service a Cantata was given, interspersed with choruses, solos and interludes in somewhat a dramatic manner, the whole being a very pleasant feature which was thoroughly enjoyed by the large audience present.

The services at the First Baptist church came to an end Sunday night. The meeting had been in progress for two weeks and considerable interest has been shown. The preaching of the first week was conducted by Dr. Sen Cox, of Memphis. The pastor, Rev. Smith doing the preaching the last week of the meeting.

Funeral services for Mrs. French were held from the home Sunday evening at 2:30 o'clock by Rev. Howell and Hill, with interment at city cemetery. Mrs. French had been a patient sufferer for some time and her death, while a great shock to her many friends here, was not unexpected. She was the mother of Mrs. Gus Moore and had resided here for sometime. Beautiful floral emblems attested the high esteem in which she was held by all who know her.

News has been received here of the death of Floyd Rodgers who for the past five years has been in the Homer, La., oil fields. The news came in the form of a telegram from the sheriff of the above place directed to a brother of the dead man. The telegram did not convey the cause of death, but simply announced the death, and asked disposition of the body. A brother who works in the shops at Albany immediately left for the body and is expected back Monday.

Mr. Rodgers was raised in the country west of here, has several brothers who are citizens of this county. He left for the oil fields of Louisiana several years ago and has been at work there ever since. Burial will take place near his old home between this point and Danville.

Henry Sherrill left Monday morning for Birmingham to accept a position in the U. S. internal revenue department. He will travel under the direction of his chief. Henry is a splendid young man and his many friends are congratulating him on his good fortune, and will watch eagerly to see him forge his way to the forefront up the ladder of success.

The grammar school will close with this week's study. Examinations have been conducted for the past week and the young Americans have been counting the days and hours for some time. School out time is always a pleasant time with most of boys and girls. The school has had a most successful term under the wise management of Prof. G. G. Glover and his corps of assistants.

The second Booster Day was held at Hartselle Saturday. This is the second of a series of trade days this club has arranged to pull off during the summer months. A large crowd of farmers were in town for the occasion. Lucky numbers calling for a barrel of flour, a sack of sugar and a bedstead and mattress were given away to the successful contestants.

The many friends of Prof. Sherrill will be sorry to know he is seriously sick at his home in Flint. As an educator he has perhaps had a wider and more varied experience in his line as teacher and builder than many of his co-laborers. There are many nice school buildings over this and adjoining counties directly attributable to his efforts. For the past several months he has conducted a school at Flint, assisted by his daughter, Mrs. W. H. Lovelady, of Hartselle.

New York Letter

by Lucy Jeanne Price

NEW YORK, April 17—Are you planning to "settle down" when you get to be a mere 60 years or so? Take inspiration from Miss Celeste J. Miller, who stopped off here the other day on her way to Chicago after a trip around the world. Miss Miller is 74 years old, has just completed her sixth trip around the world, and as soon as she had time to catch her breath and get some clothes made is going to start on her seventh. She travels alone, with a trusty cane for protection and she says it has never failed her.

that her first production will be Somerset Maugham's new play, "East of Suez," which Mr. Woods will put on in the early autumn.

The Sight That Met Madge's Eyes on the Wood Road.

LIKE many another adventurer, the farther I journeyed in my search for temporary freedom, the less joyous and free I felt.

At Southampton I began to wonder how things were going at home. The Rhinecock hills were robbed of their beauty by quakes as to the worry which my unexplained absence might cause Lillian and my mother-in-law, and at Good Ground a new and terrifying thought struck me squarely. Suppose because of worry caused by my absence, the watch always kept upon Junior should be relaxed and he meet with some accident—an accident that would be my fault!

My little excursion into the realm of what is so touchingly known among our ultra-modern circles as "living one's own life," stopped abruptly right there. I turned the car around so swiftly that I almost rammed an unoffending countryman driving the other way. Headless alike of his indignant glare and his shouted objection, but with a heavy glance over my shoulder for the possible proximity of a traffic officer, I sped back over the road I had come, with only one thought in my mind—to reach home as quickly as possible.

Irretrievably my own actions and reactions reminded me of those of the small boy of tradition who runs away from home, only to find himself drawn back again by a tenuous pulling cord.

The small boy's cry of "I'm home!" with a parental whispering, mine had its intention in a conjunctive action. I stopped my mental conclusions with a jerk. For while the small boy had in return submitted, I had no intention. I told myself firmly, of yielding to Dicky's absurd demand when I should see him again.

And yet—

Homeward Bound.

Most women are little cattle when it comes to following any line of conduct which comes in conflict with their affections. I have found that out before in my own experience, and the fact was borne in upon me more and more forcibly as I retraced the road along which I had rushed with such freedom and freedom of spirit but a few minutes before.

For try to keep them elsewhere as I would, my thoughts kept straying back to Dicky. What had he done when I dashed away after his hour of my day? I knew subconsciously, indeed consciously, if I would permit myself to admit it, that he had not meant a single syllable that he uttered. No doubt, if the after-time ever came in it, we could discuss the thing calmly. Dicky would deny in perfect good faith that he ever had uttered such words. But he would remember them keenly enough in that first minute of my departure. I knew him well enough for that, and tried to picture his probable action. Would he make any effort to follow me, or would he be so angry

The old Gracie mansion, one of New York's beautiful and best known homes of its early days, will be preserved and turned into a museum. A group of women have succeeded in having the legislature pass a bill putting the custody of the house into the hands of the Patriotic New Yorkers; of which Mrs. John King Van Rensselaer is president. The Gracie home was built in 1790, and was the country home of Archibald Gracie, who was host there to the exiled King Louis Phillips of France, General La Fayette and scores of famous men from all over the world. It overlooks Hell Gate at the highest point of Carl Schurz park in what is now a completely built up part of the city.

Porch Comfort

Are you able to enjoy your porch during the bright sunny days in midsummer? Have you not often thought how much more pleasure you would have if you could use your porch from early Spring until late in the Fall?

After you have experienced the pleasure which one can easily have almost every day from Spring until Fall if your porch is fitted up with VUDOR Porch Shades and then equipped with comfortable porch furniture, we do not believe you could possibly be induced to go back to the porch of old which was open to the sunshine and which was almost as public as the roof of your house itself, and which perhaps seemed to you such a barren, uninhabitable place.

Let us put VUDOR Porch Shades on your porch and bring a nice porch suit and you will be comfortable for the Summer.

Do not put off buying that refrigerator; We can save you money in the price of refrigerators and also in the amount of ice used.

How Madge Found Dicky.

WITH my heart pounding violently against my side I reached Dicky's car and steadied myself against it, while a dozen wild conjectures flashed through my brain. In imagination I saw him killed in divers fashions in the forest nearby, when from the other side of the car, beneath which he evidently had been lying, Dicky rose with an air of belatedness that would not have deceived Junior.

"Well! What do you think you're doing now?" he blustered.

I paid no attention to his words, noting only the flash of unutterable relief in his eyes and the hoarseness of his voice with a touch of trepidation in it. The next second I was round the car, wildly clinging to him.

"Oh, Dicky! You're alive! You're alive!" I cried thankfully.

At the first touch of my hands he made a slight movement as if to thrust me away from him—patently the last flaring of his furious wrath—but the next instant his arms went round me roughly, crushing me in so tight, an embrace that I could scarcely breathe.

"You're alive!" I murmured again, but so obsessed had I been with the thought of possible accident to his car that I could think of nothing else.

and I stopped, gazing at him in open-mouthed astonishment.

"Why, what do you mean?" I stammered.

His voice and gaze grew sterner, colder.

"Just stop and reflect a minute," he said judiciously. "We leave the house, presumably for a pleasant little drive together. I return unhurt, without a scratch, with no idea of where you are, pass out some plausible yarn about a breakdown somewhere, get my car and start out after you, and find you dead beside the road. Do you suppose people would have believed that I had nothing to do with the accident? It might, of course, never have come to any public trial—although there are men in prison today on less evidence—but it would always have been an ugly scandal about me. Nice inheritance for Junior, don't you think so?"

"Let's Forget It."

That Dicky was absolutely right in his indictment I knew; and was crushed with remorseful humiliation at the remembrance of my own folly. Yet, deep within my heart—too deep for drawing forth—was a little seed of resentment against Dicky for the manner in which he was magnifying my offence and minimizing his own.

He had referred to my "marvelous self-control," and had said that he had never known me to "go completely off my trolley before." Could he not see, I asked myself hotly, that my poise where he was concerned had been well high worn out by his explosions of temper, and that while I was greatly to blame for what had happened, he was equally culpable? But if I read his attitude aright, he held his explosion to be no excuse or reason whatever for mine. He had apologized, because, as a gentleman he was ashamed of his brutality, but he judged my action as absolutely independent of his.

Even if I had wished to voice my thought, which I did not, I would have had no chance to do so. Dicky, when he finished talking, crushed me in a rough embrace again.

THREE MILLION GUESTS AT WORLD'S LARGEST BIRTHDAY PARTY

Famous Orchestra Leader Plays By Radio For Mother Two Thou- sand Miles Away

New York City.—The miles that lay between Paul Whiteman in New York City and Mrs. James Whittemore in Denver did not prevent the well-known orchestra leader from giving a party for his mother when her birthday rolled round the other day.

Mr. Whiteman simply betook himself and his ten-piece orchestra de luxe to Newark, N. J., where there's a radio broadcasting station.

At the same hour, two thousand miles away, Mrs. Whittemore was seated in front of her newly-installed receiving set and the first birthday party ever given by radio was on.

Mother "Listens In"
A success? Ask Mrs. Whittemore, who hadn't seen her boy or heard him play for three years and hadn't had him at her birthday parties for five.

Ask, too, the three million guests all over the United States who "listened in" to the special program, which included new current hits like "Venetian Love Boat" and "Swanee River Moon" as well as "Ty-Tee," the new South Sea symcopated craze recently introduced to Broadway.

Makes Audience Dance
"After he got three million of us standing for the 'Star Spangled Banner,' he gave us no chance to sit down before he had us dancing to 'Ty-Tee,'" chuckled the card of thanks of one of the three million guests.

"Sit down? My, I didn't, anyway—not the whole time," commented Mother Whittemore when they told her about this letter. "I was too excited. I felt about it just like any flapper, even if the occasion did mark—well, I won't say what birthday. Anyway, I'm young enough to still be allowed to remark that it was 'some party.'"

Three of the injured are in hospitals here and are said to be in serious condition. Relief work is hampered by the almost impassable condition of the roads. The local Red Cross and all available doctors are busy with the relief.
